

- 1) Last Sunday, we learned about the authority of Jesus and how followers of Christ are called to spread his kingship and rule to the world. Over this past week, how were you able to take part in this Great Commission given to us?

- 2) Read Micah 6:6-8. What did the Lord tell Micah to do during this dark period for the people of Israel?

- 3) Micah 6:8 commands the people of God to act justly, love mercy, and walk humbly. How should these three commands influence how we approach the racism and injustice we see in our country?

- 4) Was there anything from the teaching time or Matt Cassidy and Cathy Ellison's conversation that you have never thought of before? Did you learn anything new about racial awareness?

- 5) Why do you think having conversations about race can be difficult? How can conversations about race and differing cultures be a helpful tool in seeking out racial reconciliation?

- 6) Today we learned that two of the most helpful things we, as followers of Christ, can do is to pray and to educate ourselves on racism and injustice. This week, how can you become like Christ in all of life by dedicating yourself to prayer and education on these issues?

Worship through Action: Today we learned about the power of having conversations on the subjects of racism and injustice. Who will you choose to converse with this week about these topics?
